MOST IMPORTANT
DISCOVERY OF THE DAY
The Sheep-Farmers and the Public in general.

F. C. Calvert's Phenyline & Theroheuic Sheep Salve

Of the great reputation these specifics have enjoyed in every quarter of their discovery, it is unnecessary in all cases where they have been applied, has induced numerous imitations to be offered to the public, which are not only worthless but in many instances dangerous. Sheep-farmers, therefore, cannot be too careful in the determination of the Sheep Salve, as incorrectly applied, not only will it prove useless, but in many cases fatal, and be only sold in fair tins, bearing our Trade Mark, and the Signature of the Sole Proprietor, without which none are genuine.

Sold in Buenos Ayres by Messrs. Lumb, Smith, and Co., Bolivar, Messrs. Imrie, Smith, and Co., Rivadavia, and by all respectable storekeepers and chemists in the Republic, in England for coming Europe, by Messrs. Sanger and Sons, Oxford-street, London, and all towns and stations and towns; the parcels already sent to Europe, Australia, and the United States, have given the greatest satisfaction, and are highly recommended by numerous wool and sheep. The market reads from the Sheep Salve is also used for curing horses, cattle, &c.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1863.

Interesting Congress Detail s

The members have at last met, with every disposition to 'move on.' As soon as the President had taken the chair, business was begun. The first subject was the budget. The very moment the budget was named, the members began to yawn and cough. One member, whose patience had been fairly exhausted, wished to know when, in the name of Heaven, would this d——d budget be finished—(the member was at once called to order)—he believed that this monstrous legislative boa constrictor should be at once disposed of. The fact of the matter is, that even the English paper, the 'Standard,' was attacking the Executive on the matter. Flores' invasion was said to cost the Oriental Republic close on 1000 ounces per diem, but the discussion of the budget was costing the Argentine public more than even that, as would be discovered, if a proper estimate were made of all the expenses. Public education was now the subject of budget discussion: he (the speaker) believed it better to pass the whole matter without a dissention vote than to waste valuable time discussing the price of potatoes in the Catamarcan College.

Hereupon a warm debate ensued, one member insisting that they should see for what every copper real was required, Argentine cash interests being now exchanged, and if we are to believe report, anxious enquiries were made as to the state of health of the maternal relations of some of the deputies. The discussion lasted until half past seven o'clock, when one deputy roared out "Will you ever go home?"

The members were on the point of adjourning, when news was brought that "the widows were coming," here upon every one ran for his hat.

The session closed.

We understand that the widows have made out a black list of all the married members of both houses, and that henceforth at all fashionable widows' tertulias these hostile and cruel legislators will be excluded.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

We are pleased to see that both the Government and individuals are paying increased attention to public education.

Nineteen thousand little Argentines are this moment receiving a sound, liberal, education at the expense of the nation. There is som thing so peculiarly gratifying to a foreigner to learn that the Government of a South American Republic is using its best efforts to the enslaved people amongst whom he lives, generation, that we feel delighted to be in a position to assure foreigners of the fact.

But the efforts to educate the public are not confined to the Government, we are happy to say. Sr. Don Pastor Obligado (a name which no matter what its political reputation may be) is now diligently employed in the noble effort of propagating knowledge. A gentleman who possesses such wealth and position amongst us as Dr. Obligado deserves the thanks of both natives and foreigners for such meritorious exertions. We trust he will meet with ever support from those whom Providence has placed in a position similar to his own.

A GANG OF ASSASSINS.

Our readers will remember that we mentioned a few days ago 'a human monster' whom we met at Merlo, en route for 25 de Mayo, where he was to suffer capital punishment for a long chapter of enormities which merited, if possible, a dozen deaths. This youth of twenty years had murdered in cold blood a number of peaceful settlers on the frontier, for the sole purpose of gratifying the most unbridled lust, to which he sacrificed their unhappy wives and daughters. But we were not fully aware of the frightful state of society in that district before reading the process of his condemnation.

At the very time that Buenos Ayres was celebrating the victory of Pavon, with enthusiastic rejoicings, the partido of Saladillo and 25 de Mayo were overrun with terror by the daring and sanguinary feats of a gang of murders who went about openly from house to house, carrying everywhere death, dishonour, and pillage, with impunity. German Ubiedo, Zenobio Ubiedo, Eduardo Zapata, Geronimo Ramos, Isaac Montecino, Rafaelito Heredia, and Vicente Gomez composed this diabolical band, of which the leader has suffered a felon's death, Zapata and Heredia have been previously shot in their territorial career, Zenobio Ubiedo and Gomez awaiting justice, Ramos being now condemned to ten years' imprisonment, and Montecino acquitted.

From the confessions of the criminals and evidence of some of their victims we learn the horrible details which fill up the three years their reign of terror lasted, uninterrupted by the mock authorities of these districts

"In April 1860 German and Zenobio Ubiedo were roaming about the partido of 25 de Mayo, lawless and houseless, when they chanced to meet Zapata and invited them to join him and form a band of freebooters. Going one night to a dance at one of those dens of infamy, Pulperias belonging to a wretch called Balcarce, they there met Gomez Heredia, the latter of whom usually lived at the house of a neighbour named Francisco Gonzalez. After drinking and carousing all night they declared their intention, to the women present, of going to assassinate Gonzalez, and accordingly, having first discharged and reloaded their fire-arms, set out for his rancho, which they reached half an hour after sunrise. Having left their horses securing their horses, the dogs gave an alarm, and they rushed towards the enclosure of the hut exclaiming "kill him, kill him."

Their unhappy victim leaped out of bed, with a presentment of danger, and seizing a double-barrelled gun which he always had forth to meet his assailants, one of whom, Zapata, he instantly shot dead, and, attacking the traitor Heredia, he severely wounded with a blow of the crowbar. But German Ubiedo, coming behind, stabbed Gonzalez in the back, inflicting a mortal wound. His wife, to whom he was wounded, begging her to fetch him his sword. He succeeded in felling Zenobio, when the German gave him a second blow with a knife, which laid him dead on the floor. Then the wife coming to the rescue, found the three assassins laughing over her husband's body, perforating it with their daggers. A neighbour, named Castillo, happened to be gathering his cattle, when he met Zenobio Ubiedo riding up to him, ordered him, in the name of the military commander, to present himself at Gonzalez's house. No sooner had he arrived, than four blows of the murderers, tying him hand and foot, stretched him on the ground, and put a pistol to his throat, but the third prevented them.

No notice being taken (as it would appear) by the authorities, these murderers continued their bloody orgies with unremitted energy, being soon joined by one Ramos, who cruelly butchered D. Vicente Rufino. Hence forward they were by the name of Forajidos de profesion (burglars' profession). committing all classes of enormity. In August, 1861, after a successful career of infamy for 18 months, they picked up Montecino, a deserter from the 3rd Battalion, and commenced their barbarities.

In the month of October, 1861, German Ubiedo and Ramos attacked, about midnight, the house of a poor woman, Nazaria Ferreira, whose only companions were her sisters, and daughter aged 15, the men being at this time all drafted off to the war. By dint of threats and blows, the ruffians compelled the poor women to yield to their criminal purposes. Ubiedo then acting as sentinel, Ramos pillaged the house of all its contents, taking even a mates cup.

Shortly after, on another night, German and Ramos presented themselves at the same house, wearing false beard and fire arms; they reported their results on Nazaria, her daughter Encarnacion, and 'consuelo,' one Maria Fuentes. Exequiela having escaped to the open camp, half distracted with terror, she was pursued by Ubiedo and dragged back to the house, where they then proceed to cut her throat, for crying. They then plundered the rancho of everything and fired a shot which, they said, was a signal to their comrades who had gone to rob the neighbouring houses. Ramos and Ubiedo next attacked the dwelling of Augustina Andrade ages 18 years, who gave evidence to the following effect:

In Nov., 1861, these two ruffians came up at midnight to the rancho of Fernandez, for the sole purpose of uttering horrible threats that they would set the house a fire and murder the inmates, if not at once admitted. Ramos had a sword in his hand, and Ubiedo a long knife: they searched under the bed, declaring they would murder Gregory if found, but he, luckily, absent. They then criminally assaulted the unfortunate wife and her daughter Augustina.

At length German Ubiedo fell into the trammels of the law, and, being brought to trial, was sentenced to be shot at 8 o'clock on May 1st, 1863; however, was so negligent, that on taking off his irons in the plaza of that village, to execute the sentence, he took to his heels, and, leaping across a ditch, escaped. He then joined the rioters of Guardia Monte and aided in the murder of Vigil, after which he was arrested with several others, and again tried and condemned to death, 13th March, 1863.

It will scarcely be credited that :—

1st. This wretch began his wicked life at 12 years of age, having run away from home to loiter at pulperias, and being chastised for his evil practices, threatened to stab him on a future occasion.

2nd. That he and his accomplices should be re-effected to continue this reign of terror for over 2 years, in a district boasting police-administration.

3rd. That his guards allowed him to escape from their reign of

4th. That seven months elapsed before his 2nd condemnation and execution.

5th That his comrade Ramos although convicted of attempting to murder Carey and numberless other crimes, and sentenced to death, nevertheless has escaped death, being condemned to a punishment which promises again to let him loose on society.

6th. That Ramos has been let out free, and Zenobio Ubiedo absurdly condemned to death, he being in large the camp.

7th. That, in spite of all this, Doctor Acosta thinks the camp-police excellent, and accuses of sedition those who advocate their abolition, putting a muzzle on his writing a gauche in self defence.

BANDA ORIENTAL.

The 'Reforma' of Thursday states that only the President, Sec. Sierra, has resigned, but that his colleagues refusing their posts in the Cabinet, is, however, thought that Sierra's resignation being accepted, the others will not continue in office: Herrera, moreover, is unpopular. General Francisa is spoken of as his successor; he is a very energetic man, an Oriental by birth, but General in the Argentine army, having served as Minister of War in the Parana Cabinet. The late Premier is gone to reside at S. José.

Letters from Concepcion 4th inst. state that Gen. Flores and Gen. Urquiza have incorporated their Entre Rian filibusters to the number of 600 men. General Urquiza had written a letter to Calvo's correspondent, informing him of the capture of San Juan city by the Chacho (?). The General was expectgd to visit his Saludero of Sta. Cundida same day.

General Moreno's despatches from Ito Cruz, 6th inst. state that his outposts reach as far as the river Colorado, and they learned that Medina had encamped 2 days before, near the fort of S. Juan Bautiste, continuing his march, on the 6th, in pursuit of Flores who fled in the direction of Cerro Largo, with the apparent object of taking refuge on the frontier of Yaguaron. Col. Pio Corneal, with the forces under him, joined Medina at a place called Antonio Herrera.

Mnes. Mollo was to sing Norma for her Benefit on Thursday next, but Madame Bueno, Paulina's Benefit, Sunday next, in a piece called La grana de Dieu. Dr. Acevedo's obsequies took possession of the Teatro Solis on Friday. Mr. Archibald McLellan has opened a painter's shop at 233 calle Misiones; but an English house-painter is much more required in Buenos Ayres.

A fine steamengine, for a mill, is at the old doubloon; recently imported from England. An Italian named Damian Dallagast 30 years, committed suicide on Tuesday, by shooting himself in the stomach: another Italian committed felo-de-se same week. The Ira Plata is advertised to leave M. Video for Liguel direct on the 24th inst the U nguay is expected to arrive before that date, having left Liguel on 15th ult. The police has issued orders strictly prohibiting hunting or swiling in the vicinity of the capito also selling game in the public markets.

EDITOR'S TABLE

On Thursday last, people were taken up gratis to the 11 Setiembre. On next day, the 'bus drivers increased their liberality, and took passengers up and back gratis. To-day they intend to go still further, and one popular 'bus proprietor, we hear, not only gives a free passage up and down, but a cup of coffee into the bargain; and the drivers of the new anti-Life Insurance, should it avail themselves of the offer.

The Argentine races promise to be well attended to-morrow. Belgrano will run, and several other well-known horses also, money is easy, the weather fine, the day appointed a holiday, so we have no doubt, the attendance will be great. Mr. Deacon will have a busy time of it, and had better secure some extra waiters.

The Municipality of San Isidro give a grand dejeuner a la fourchette to-day, to the committee of inspectors appointed by Government to report on the state of the works, &c., of the Buenos Ayres and Northern Railway. On Monday, the road will be open to the public to San Isidro, which is one of our most beautiful little suburb towns, and delightfully situated on the banks of La Plata.

There was considerable excitement the other day in the Lunatic Asylum, owing to one of the keepers having discovered that a man suspended himself from the boughs of a tree. The keeper called for help stentoriously, and at last approached the unhappy victim of insanity. Meanwhile the mad people perceiving the figure, shouted out "Flores, Flores." That this celebrated revolutionary character could have escaped from the Banda Oriental to meet such a fate seemed incredible. The mystery was soon solved, for on approaching the hanging figure, it proved that it was only a few sticks put together, dressed up in the figure of a man, which the inmates had done for amusement.

There is not the slightest doubt, in fact it is a matter so notorious that there is no denying it, the coach fares in the city are enormously high. $3 is called to pay for a coach to the train is almost approaching a public swindle, particularly when we recollect the great horse property we have. Why not Government charges 2 dollars a seat to go from Calle Mejico to the Parque station, put the horses on a handsomely gravel to run more than 25 dollars. From the Bolsa to the Custom-house, a distance of only a few squares, the same charge is made. Now, in every respect we have much abused Chief of Police, we must say that he ought to have these fares reduced. The present hour is plenty to pay for sitting in one of those murderous coaches. If the fare was reduced the coach owners would do twice the business.

It is quite evident that however well read the editor of the Nacion Argentina may be in Kent and Story, he knows nothing whatever of the art of cookery. We judge him by his own statement in yesterday's edition, wherein he declares that the Government Commissariat has lost all claim to the right of neutrality, by accepting the co-operation of Waldina Urquiza. This is we believe the error into which the Nacion editor has fallen, and we feel bound to correct our colleague, who generally speaking is correct in his assertions. If Sr. Urquiza, as an Argentine citizen wearing the uniform of that nation, assisted President Bero, possibly the Nacion might be correct; but it is notorious that the Commissariat of Herro has Basques, French, Italians, and Entre Rians fighting for him in the fully established belief that Government, against a most nefarious rebellion, that he thereby loses the right to demand of these nations or countries the strictest neutrality.

Through some unaccountable mistake, many of our subscribers have not received the speakers which we send to the papers. We beg to notify all those who have not received any, that upon applying at the nearest agency they will be supplied. We are now receiving the forms, filled up, from all quarters. The number of resident Englishspeaking foreigners is very considerable, and will enable the authorities when our next edition comes out.

We receive at times extraordinary requests from our country friends which, as regards, we are unable to comply with; but it is altogether out of the question to think that we can buy children's books, have the Government hands, report on law-suits, and such like. The only thing we promise subscribers is to forward letters, and even this gives an infinity of trouble which we would be glad to escape. Farmers, when they have any stock to invests to make, should apply to their agents, who, generally speaking, have plenty of spare time, and every disposition to make themselves unhappy to their customers.

Two steamers arrived yesterday from the Banda Oriental: one from the Uruguay, and the other from Montevideo. Fabilino Urquiza has had a great victory, and, we are happy to say, has not stained his character by the murdering, in cold blood, of his prisoners, who are at present, we believe, imprisoned in Paysandu.

In Montevideo the ministerial crisis monopolised public attention. A meeting of the shareholders of the Commercial Bank, was convened for the 15th inst. The Bank of Manu advertises to be a No. Du. Sociedad Anonima, respecting business of importance. The London and River Plate Bank still we had rather see him strolling down Calle Florida, than leading on negro melodies in a way which has already wearied mankind without producing any salutary effect.

OUR COTTON PROSPECTS.

"He that laughs longest laughs best.' Every one in the country has laughed at us for our cotton-preaching: they are tired laughing, now our turn begins. Not hundreds, not thousands, but millions of lovely green cotton plants are just peeping over Argentine soil: in a few months, with a little care and the blessing of Providence, these little omens of future prosperity will be strong healthy plants, and in a little while longer they will be trees. We laugh now at those wizards of the South who so confidently predicted that cotton in these countries was nothing else than a Standard humbug. The wool staple of this province, the tobacco of Perguay, the bones and bone ash of the republic, are but pigmies, when compared to the grand Standard staple of the republic—cotton.

If any class of men should thank us for our unceasing efforts, it is, we apprehend, the shipbrokers, many of whom have so much spare time on hand, owing to the utter exhaustion of export produce, that they occupy themselves in the extravagant interest as to the authenticity of Mr. Bero, or decamp calculations on the amelioration of our currency. Strange to say, these are the very last to appreciate our labours. Not one of our gifted, high-standing, erudite shipbrokers have applied to us for cotton seed, or taken the trouble to forward to some friend in the country a few sacks for distribution.

It is not our object, however, to attack the shipbrokers, but merely to assure those gentlemen that their future commissions on every bale of cotton they export will be ours, as we approached the season when confidence replaces doubt, and hopes at last prove realities. Cotton is, we are happy to say, springing up in every corner of Paraguay and Corrientes, in one third of Santa Fe, and in the vicinity of squares in Entre Rios. We will not disguise the honest pride which we feel at such a prospect unrolled before us, but thank Heaven for its blessings on our adopted country.

A staple crop equivalent to our wool exports, would secure us from the evils attending an adverse balance of trade; but who is there who will place a limit to our cotton exports in future, when the peace takes root amongst us. The day is not far distant when, with the help of God, a vessel leaving us in ballast will be a thing of the past, when in the navvy between steamers and ships will cease to exist, and France, England, Belgium, and the States will be remitting us gold bars, instead of our being obliged to pay for our imports in kiting bills of exchange.

Our cotton prospects are brighter and brighter each day. Every steamer, every post, brings us flattering intelligence of some new report down and plants coming up. Shipbrokers! be on the qui vive, for we are building up a business for you, the magnitude of which just little conceive: help us to maintain peace and extinguish revolution, and we, in return, promise to increase your business tenfold.

BANK INSOLENCE.

The clerks and employees of some of our banks, it would appear, are becoming of the Custom house stamp. A most glaring case of impertinence has recently come under our observation, which, if it occurred in any properly regulated bank, would cause the instant dismissal of the clerk. An Englishman, who resides some six leagues from town, went to the Casa de Moneda the other day, in somewhat of a hurry, to despatch some business previous to returning some that evening. It was exactly a quarter to three o'clock when our friend presented himself to the clerk with his sash book. 'Come to morrow,' was the answer he received from the lounging employee. Mr. N. remonstrated with the clerk, stating that it was only

Captain Mayer writes to 'Harper's Weekly' a long defence of his comrades in arms, maintaining 'the supreme excellence of negro regiments,' for proof whereof he quotes their services in the varied Argentine Independence, against Brazil, at the siege of Montevideo, We cannot, however, admit that war is destitute of science, and as the black race is notably inferior in intellect to the whites, Major Meyer's theory falls to the ground.

Neither can we rejoice, for the sake of this enthusiastic Argentine soldier, that he should have changed the scene of his labours, for we had rather see him

Madame Mollo's benefit was to take place on the 8th, when she sings the inimitable 'Bero.' Business was getting much brisker, and it was confidently asserted that the revolution would be wound up in a few days.

THE NEW LAND LAW.

Foreigners who wish to acquire ca-pe property have no longer to go to the provinces or into the islands. They have only just to take train to Moreno, start out due west, and after riding any 40 leagues, they will get on the lands which the Government now offers not on lease, not in castiento, not as a quatters, but in fee simple, that is to say, forever. The following is the law :

Art. 1 The Government is authorised to grant in fee the public lands which are on the new line of railway, and thought at present rented; the grant to each individual shall not exceed one suerte of estancia, i.e., three-fourths of a square league of land.

Art 2. The conditions necessary to obtain from Government the land grant, are as follows :—Build a brick house, with stone roof, of 5 by 4 yards; introduce 1000 sheep and 300 head of cattle. The house shall be built in the centre of the ground, but with the front looking towards the Buenos Ayres.

Art. 3. If within the year of the concession, the concessionaire complies with all the obligations necessary, the Government shall have the ground measured, and the papers and legal documents made out and delivered.

Art. 4. If the concessionaire permits the year to expire without performing the requisite conditions, the grant shall become null and void, and the party to whom it was made shall be fined 500 dollars, which shall be handed to the Municipality.

Art. 5. The concessionaire or person to whom the Government shall convey in fee such lands, shall be liable monthly to pay to the National finances 1 of the afterwards as he disposes of said lands, the parties who purchase same shall incur the like obligation.

Art. 6. Only at the expiration of three years, after the occupation of such lands, shall contribution tax be levied.

Art. 7. The Government is authorised to expend whatever sums may be necessary to carry this law into effect.

LUCIO, CAZON, ATUCHA.

SAN FERNANDO.

Those of our readers who feel inclined to make a trip to this delightful little river town, should avail themselves of the present happy opportunity, when the omnibus men are all going mad.

The Argentine Company notifies the public that if people will only pay their fare in the railway to San Isidro, they will convey them gratis to San Fernando in their 'buses.

The opposition company has got busily enraged at this, and we believe next week will offer to convey all Standard subscribers free, only paying their fares in the train into the bargain.

It is really most uncivil of the public to refuse such tempting offers. People who have no cash can now ride on a free day somewhat on the home style, that is to say, instead of as formerly being limited to a stroll round the plaza, or a promenade with the servant girls in the Parque, the Buenos Ayres public can

"Jump into the wagons, and all take a ride."

We say, then, let's for San Fernando, beautiful San Fernando, where, thanks gratis, bewitching villagers, and charming old green lanes, San Fernando really wears a look of home, and makes it the most agreeable suburb in the Argentine nation—Will nobody start one?

BLACK SOLDIERS.

We regret to find that the talented and respectable Major Archibald Mayer, who left Buenos Ayres in disgust, last year, because President Mitre was not going on to his liking, has become a captain of niggers in the United States' army. The employment of black auxiliaries, by President Lincoln, to fight against their late masters, is viewed with little favour, even it New York; and Europeans have always considered it a degradation to be enrolled among coloured troops.

a quarter to three, and that he shall take it as a great favour if he would despatch his business; but he could get no other answer from the clerk than Como to morrow; and even though he told him that he lived out of town and had to return that very evening, this bank clerk would not condescend to give him any other reply, and that in an increasing tone, which almost amounted to a menace.

Our friend, who is a man of the proper stamp, has probably resolved to leave this 'come-to-morrow' bank and open his account in a private bank, the manager and clerks of which are proverbial for their politeness.

LATEST FROM MONTEVIDEO.

The Minister of Home Affairs sent in his resignation on Saturday last, and when this was accepted, the other three ministers sent in theirs, in order to leave the President free to form a new ministry. It was expected that the President would accept them likewise. At all events, the new Ministry, when named, will continue the same politics as the former, as the President's ideas have not changed, and he will not name the new ministry before imposing his views on them.

Medina's last despatches are from Puntas de Ulimar, always running after Flores. The filibuster was now on his journey from the town of Carro Largo, on the 4th, or three days from the Brazilian frontier. His only hope is to emigrate into that country, where they will treat him as he deserves.

General Francia has gone up the Uruguay with five or six officers.

STATE OF AMERICA.

The bitterest Republicans, the out-and-out Abolitionist have carried the day practically, but they are yet to be called to account. Parties here have been fighting side by side, and are now about to conquer, without ever agreeing on any intelligible terms. But are they all going to follow up their successes to the same end? Are they for equally bent on the extermination of the South? Are they all ready to disregard all Southern claims to compensation, to grant the slave owner no quarter, to wash out the stain of negro bondage in the blood of the Southern whites? A strife between slave and publican fanaticism a ud practical sense, to between rabbies partisanship and moderate patriotism, seems to be inevitable here; and the contest of principle will is further aggravated by fact our cries, or by personal antipathies, by local incompatibilities.

Already in the affair of the "draft," I should say that the Government has been thoroughly beaten. The conscription has turned out an egregious farce. Wherever it was not forcibly resisted, it has been eluded by the sense, the ingenuity, the vis inertiæ and the stolid perseverance of the people themselves, and of the local authorities. Those who caused purchase exemption by their own means are everywhere bought off, either by private liberality or at the public expense. None need serve in the army, save only those who are moved either by patriotic devotion or by heavy bribes. Of these latter, many have come forth from the Republican provinces, the scum of the Irish immigration, adventurers of the worst character, most of whom take the best opportunity to run away as soon as they have received the bounty. The United States Government will have reason to repent having recourse to such ignoble means; nor will they have to complain of themselves on the enlistment of negro regiments. They are playing with edged tools, and will have to thank their own folly if they do not end by cutting their own throats.

THE WEALTH OF THE COUNTRY.

The apathy of all, or at least most of well-to-do persons, in the affairs of the country is something amazing, appalling. Your rich merchant and banker is busy altogether absorbed by his anxiety for the making money, or all agog with the pleasure of spending it. He is either mailed to his desk at his counting-house, but or heading luxuries in his country house, or displaying his wealth at the watering-places. Politics are the business of politicians—i.e., of nameless adventurers, without a stake in the country. As yet no one in these States of New York and New England would say that a great calamity has swept over the country, or that a crisis for life or death is raging in its bosom. The ladies' dresses and the equipages of the rich have not abated one tittle of their wonted luxury. The directors of the revenue give the most charming accounts of the readiness with which the taxes are paid. You would never say that the arming of a million of men has taken one saddle horse or a "span" of the carriage horses from Broadway or the Central Park. Those who look you look for the effects of this ruinous contest, the stranger becomes you conviction of the boundless wealth and resources of this Western continent. The Americans knew not how well off they were; they are not yet aware how seriously they have stepped down from their standing prosperity. They may perhaps, understand it better by-and-by, when the war is lighted it assumed a rotatory motion so violent that Blondin was unable to resist the movement; and feeling his danger, to go the narrow he had been driving before him, as well as his balancing pole, and embarrassed by the strings which attached the burning head dress to his neck. He dropped from the rope, keeping himself suspended from it by his hands, while he still kindled the apparatus, the fireworks still exploding

Mr. Bouicault passed through the Bankruptcy Court on 10th August, obtained a shower of compliments from commissioner and attorneys. He stated that in one year in England he had, understood, however, that he will secure not at one period £1,000 a week. It has all disappeared in two years, partly through investments in America, which now produce only taxes.

The Archduke Maximilian has not yet publicly signified his acceptance of the Mexican throne. It seems to be negotiations are proceeding between him and the Emperor Napoleon. He has a thirty-two, and married a daughter of the King of the Belgians. The "Monitour" has not spoken on the subject. The press publishing a decree cancelling the proclamation under which General Forey threatened to confiscate the estates of all who resisted the intervention. According to the intelligence, Juarez is almost deserted, and Michael Doblado, the ablest of the local leaders, has agreed to recognise the Empire, provided the French do not advance into his State—Guanaxuato. General Forey declined to accede, and Doblado must, therefore, be either subdued or purchased, either an easy process.

CHANTERBURY'S PATENT GRAVE.—More to the left, on the line now be taken up by that dingy, half-lighted market of Farringdon, provided as an asylum for the sweet smells and pleasant sights of Fleet Market, until 1846, was the pauper burial-ground of St. Andrew's, Holborn. None of our readers can be ignorant of the terribly realistic picture of the city graveyard drawn by Dickens in "Bleak House." The spot in question might be described in the same words. It had nothing to recommend it to our modern fancy cemeteries; a few feet of uneven earth, which no careful spade had ever been applied to, a few rails, no gravestones, not even a single unpainted stake, to indicate the coffin below; but here a brick covered pit was made, and where a cluster of nettles or rank weeds; and, commonly close under the wall, a deep, narrow pit, yawning until be filled.

The pit was completed. A few handfuls of rubbish cover it from notice. A sad tragedy was enacted in this neighbourhood. Good; and what's grave, dismal! the mouldering remains of sin, pain, and want, was to confer a dismal no less than a horrible grave on that spot. Within none of its former occupants had given The parish register records :—"August 28, 1776—William (Thomas) Chatterton [the wretched poet, who, after many wards], interred in the graveyard of Shoe lane Workhouse." These few words are pregnant with awful interest, and include with utter horror the whole biography of a gifted but hapless son of genius, who crowded into an existence of eighteen years more intellectual promise than ever fell to the lot of one individual in so brief a period.

A PRINCELY BANQUET.—The German Sovereigns and Princes, thirty in number, were entertained at Frankfort, a few days ago, by the municipality of the city. All the Princes, with the exception of Francis Joseph, sat on plain chairs, such as are used in churches in England, gentleman's establishment would disdain to use. The porcelain had place on the table were likewise of the simplest character. The worthy magistrates of Frankfort, in offering a banquet to thirty kings and princes, had never evidently imagined it quite unnecessary to go to any particular expense in the matter, as a London Lord Mayor and Corporation would certainly have done; but they contented themselves with collecting all the old crockery to be found in their own houses or at second-hand dealers, and the "Champagne des souverains" was real champagne, furnished by the world renowned Madame Cliquot, who completely kept in tee that the contents of some of the bottles were partially frozen when put on the table. The Johannisberg came from the private cellars of the Prince Metternich and was considered worth £3 per bottle; while the 1838 Rauenthal which obtained a medal at most International Exhibition, is believed to be beyond purchase at the present moment.

ON 'CHANGE.

Monday, August 17, 1863.

Ounces to-day went up, opening at 12½ and closing at 41. Only a trifling amount was sold for cash. In fact wednesday considerable day when there was dress in ounces. The total amount of ounces sold only amounted to 6500. I fact the brokers had so little to occupy their time that they minded themselves with admiring the porter's new suit, and cap—the objectionable hat is gone

Exchange brokers have been pretty busy these last few days. We estimate the total amount of Exchange passed at 90,000, the greater portion of which has been drawn by our private bank. The closing rate is 87, as first class bills have been negotiated at that figure.

The sale of Cascallares wool has been fair to good; it is one of the largest lots in the country, 12,000 arr., and has been lying in deposit since last season. The price, we understand, is 880, which is a good deal under the market price offered when the wool first came into town.

A good deal of excitement was caused amongst the produce brokers by the startling intelligence that one cartload of the new article was in town, as a regular run down to the South Plaza all the brokers manifested the greatest anxiety to see what it was like, and who was the owner. The name from an estancia some 80 leagues south of B. A., and has been shorn merely to see if fill one of the carts of a large troop which was being sent to town with hides. The wool looks well, but is not of the best quality: the staple is strong and greasy. We believe it was sold for 880.

The boiler, engines, machinery, &c., of the steamer 'Constitution' will be sold on Monday next, at Barracas al Sud. The 'La Plata' is getting plenty of cargo, and has already six or seven passengers engaged. She has 17,000 hides on board for Antwerp.

We notice the purchase of some three leagues of Government land in the south, a little this side of Chascomus, by one of our city merchants. The land is some of the finest in the province, and the amount paid, is, we understand, $80,000.
